Outreach

By Rev. Georgia Prescott

A wise person once said that the measure of life is not its duration, but its donation.

Is there any greater feeling than that of being needed by another? Of being called on to share a part of ourselves so that someone else can walk more easily on this planet? It really speaks, I think, to our basic human desire to love and be loved. Not only by those with whom we're intimate, but all of humanity.

My guess is that every woman reading this article has had some experience of lending a hand to another--maybe you knew the person, maybe you didn't--and can relive right now the feeling you had. Try taking a break from reading just for a moment and bring into your mind's eye that time.

Was it a wink for a child humiliated in the supermarket, a special dinner for your lover who you knew was exhausted, help for a coworker who was having a rough time, sitting with a brother with AIDS? I come from a discipline that teaches you can't keep it (in this case love) unless you give it away. Giving away a little of ourselves in service only increases us in all the right places. Some of us think we have little to offer others, so we shy away from community service, thinking someone else is better suited to volunteer, has more to offer. We forget, I think, that what most humans in need want is a human being, not a human doing -- the benefit of someone who will listen and share herself. Before there were professionals for every aspect of our lives, there were families who listened and shared.

Lesbians have many opportunities to serve our family of choice, and you will read about some of them in the pages of this issue of the newsletter. One of them I want to mention here is a project SACWN's Community Outreach Team Leader, Phoenix Ewing, is putting together. She is writing to all the nursing home administrators in our area to let them know that we are available to visit any lesbian patients admitted to their facility. Are most elders afraid to identify themselves? Probably; but if even one of our lesbian elders is feeling isolated and would benefit from a visit from us, we want to be there.

If not us, who?

It can be challenging for many of us who are holding down full-time jobs, trying to find or maintain a relationship, pursue educational goals, or play a little golf, to find time to participate in community outreach. But maybe if we started out by calling Phoenix and agreeing to go on the visitor list, we would take a small first step to get our Outreach Program up and running.

Or maybe you have a community outreach idea that needs attention by members of SACWN. We would love to know your ideas. Call Phoenix at 372-6051, or SACWN's voice mail at 451-8034.

If not you, who?

SACWN GENERAL MEETING

Saturday, August 14th
10a.m.-2 p.m..
Sizzler, 2030 Fulton Ave..

Representatives of the Gay, Lesbian, Straight Education Network (GLSEN) will speak at the next SACWN general meeting. An overview of the organization (which is dedicated to combating homophobia in the schools), a history of the local chapter, and plans for the fall will be presented.

This is an excellent opportunity to become involved in alliance building with other community organizations.

Representatives from the Lavender Library and Cultural Exchange (LLACE) spoke at the last general meeting, which was held in June. In addition, those attending discussed ways to more actively involve SACWN members in the operation of the organization.

A discussion of women's health issues is planned for the October meeting. Watch for details in the next newsletter.

Anna is negotiating with the Monarch's ticket sales office to arrange for group seating for us at the Monarch's Playoffs. Call her for additional info. - 344-0386

! SACWN WANTS YOU !

We all need to get involved to help SACWN maintain a presence in the community. The best way to keep SACWN in the forefront is for all of us to volunteer--if only just a little. You do not have to give all your spare time to SACWN; just help out when you can. We need your ideas, energy, commitment, and support.

SACWN continues to sponsor social events such as live entertainment, dances, and picnics for all our lesbian sisters. If you participate in an event, please think about helping in the planning of future events. We have many jobs for you. For example, we need folks to help with the newsletter, help set up or clean up at events, and help plan future events. As with any organization, we have a small group of people who volunteer and work until they drop. We cannot rely solely on these people; we need to give them a helping hand. Let's get together and keep the spirit of SACWN alive!

I have been volunteering for about six months. During this time, I have met new friends and have enjoyed the laughter and camaraderie. There is always a funny story to tell or hear, and everyone makes you feel welcome.

If you would like to volunteer, please call SACWN at 451-8034. We need you!

Bring your own food and drinks (no alcohol allowed in city parks). Also bring lawn chairs, blankets and games you like to play. We will furnish dessert, volleyball, croquet and cards.

Our last picnic was well attended, and the feedback we received indicated that it was a big success. Join us for this fun event. Bring your family and friends along. For more information, call SACWN at 451-8034.

Children will be present and welcome at this event. Face painting and games for children are planned.

LAMBDA CENTER REBORN

The Lambda Community Center, inactive for a time, is once again open to the public. Located at 1927 L Street, the Center is right next door to a former location.

The Lambda Community Fund, the Center's umbrella organization, is Sacramento's oldest nonprofit, tax-deductible charity specifically serving the needs of lesbians and gay men. Originally incorporated in 1979 as a special assistance program, the fund was reorganized in 1984 under its current name by Rev. Jerry Sloan and Tim Warford.

The purpose also changed at that time to serve a broader cross-section of the lesbian and gay community.

In one of life's peculiar twists, Jerry Falwell indirectly provided the seed money for the Lambda Community Center . Jerry Sloan won a lawsuit against Jerry Falwell, a former classmate of Sloan's at Baptist Bible College. With the proceeds of the lawsuit, Sloan and Warford co-founded the Lambda Community Center in 1986 under the nonprofit umbrella of the Lambda Community Fund.

From August 1986 to June 1987, the Center was open part-time and run by volunteers. In June, 1987, the Center received its first AIDS grant from the Sierra Foundation and the State of California to run the STOP AIDS project. This grant allowed the Center to operate full-time with paid staff.

For many years the Center was located at 1931 L Street working on such projects as AIDS Response Programs, the Lavender Angels, a women's rap group, the Lambda Freedom Fair, and the Lambda Players, to name a few.

Today, the Center is once again being operated by a volunteer board of directors. Bates Botting, president, states that while a date is not yet set for the Grand Opening, the Center is available for meetings. The new Center has four meeting rooms of varying sizes. Two internet hookups allow access for research using free internet addresses.

The Center is once again working on projects similar to those sponsored in the past. Additional projects include a bereavement group, a men's coming out group, and a youth group. The Center is always in need of volunteers, and interested persons can call Bates Botting at 442-0185.

LLACE UPDATE

The Lavender Library, Archives and Cultural Exchange (LLACE) has opened its doors for extended hours and needs more people to help. Hours are now Thurs., 7-9 p.m.; Fri., 6-8 p.m., and Sat. and Sun., noon to 6 p.m.

An hour of your time once a week or a couple of hours a month is enough to show that you are assisting in preserving and celebrating an important institution serving our gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgendered community.

LLACE is expanding and continues to search for a larger, affordable place. Their collection has grown from 500 to 1,500 books since opening in February. Out-of-print books are especially cherished.

LLACE is also seeking those who have experience or special interest in archival preservation. They are collecting information from Sacramento-based organizations, and memorabilia from individuals that they hope will eventually be included in a history of our Sacramento LGBT community.

A computer has just been donated and LLACE looks forward to a future on-line connection. For a

HATE CRIMES: OUR COMMUNITY FIGHTS BACK

There is probably no one in our community who is not aware of the recent murders of Winfield Mowder and Gary Matson, a prominent gay couple from rural Happy Valley, near Redding.

The couple, the personification of the very spirit of community outreach we are promoting in this newsletter, was well-respected and admired for their volunteer efforts in their local community.

The murder suspects are also the chief suspects in the Sacramento synagogue arsons, which resulted in a "United We Stand" rally attended by many of us recently.

The murders have proved a rallying point for the gay and lesbian community in and around Redding, and efforts are being led by Sue Wenke and Martha Utley, both of whom have attended many SACWN events. Sue, a retired teacher, initially founded a discussion group there called the Lavender Circle.

After the murders, at a community rally sponsored by "Citizens Against Racism". Sue became one of two speakers representing the views of the local lesbian and gay community.

She used that opportunity to call for the founding of an umbrella organization to unite the various groups of the local LGBT community. The first meeting of that group was held in the middle of July, and plans were made to meet on a weekly basis thereafter.

Sue and Martha hope to get the City of Redding to issue a proclamation against hate crimes, and would like to see, as one of the goals of the new organization, an on-going effort to educate the "mainstream" population that we are, indeed, everywhere.

Good luck, women! We hope you'll still have time to come and visit SACWN.

LLACE

$10 to $100 "Pride Preserver" yearly registration, you can help LLACE grow. However, everyone is invited to use the library at no charge. It is a safe place to browse, read and participate.

All board meetings are open to the public. They are held at 2727 B Street, in the office complex of the B Street Theater.

RAINBOW BRIDGE SCHEDULES FIRST SPEAKERS TRAINING WORKSHOP

California Rainbow Bridge, a new organization devoted to building bridges between the gay and straight communities to reduce homophobia, has scheduled its first speakers training for Sat., Aug. 7 at 3 p.m.

The videos "Teaching Respect for All", "After Stonewall" and "It's Elementary" will be shown to give ideas of how to approach the issue of homophobia.

Each person's experience and comfort level will be assessed in order to create a list of speakers for various venues.

This organization is being founded by SACWN participants Paula Adams-Mitchell, Sharon Blood, Joy Fisher and Gretchen Jung.

There will be a potluck dinner. For information, contact Paula at 658-0892.

F.O.CU.S. ON US

Marghe Covino has always believed in lending a helping hand, but she has learned it's not always reciprocated.

Back in 1992, she was among a group of local lesbians who helped two mainstream breast cancer organizations put together a Mother's Day breast cancer awareness event at the Capitol. The next year, the groups organized another event, but they turned down help from local lesbians because some people "thought there was too heavy a lesbian presence last time."

So Marghe, first diagnosed with breast cancer in 1992, turned her eyes toward her own community.

She started dreaming about a photographic project, one where the patients wore only a sheet, wrapped any way they wanted.

Marghe located a photographer, contacted other patients and convinced them to let themselves be photographed, and wrote their biographies for display beside the pictures. Thus was born "Faces of Cancer, Untold Stories"--F.O.C.U.S. The photographs were eventually displayed in the Rotunda of the State Capitol during Breast Cancer Awareness Week.

As Marghe's own cancer progressed, she saw other needs, and those are the needs that the F.O.C.U.S. Foundation, established about a year ago in Sacramento, is beginning to address.

One of the needs she sees is for women to be accompanied to their doctors by other women who can act as "an ear."

"When you are diagnosed with cancer, your mind fills with a million things about all aspects of your life. You don't hear what the doctor is telling you about treatment. You really need someone else to listen for you and tell you later."

Gail Lang, one of the five F.O.C.U.S. board members, has started calling these assistants "heart-to-heart" volunteers. More volunteers are needed, and will betrayed.

F.O.C.U.S. is also in the process of formulating a memorandum of understanding with Thomas Vasquez of the Positive Gourmet for food, not only for patients, but for children of patients, and even for the family pet. While the emphasis will remain on lesbians, it is the intention of F.O.C.U.S. to reach out to poor and minority women as well.

Marghe would also like to see support groups for both patients and for partners who are caregivers.

In addition, Marghe has found a new photographer and, with the help of the producers of "Being Gay Today," a gay-themed TV show on local access cable, is planning an all-new, multi-media version of "Faces of Cancer, Untold Stories." This time, with any luck, there will be a button beside each photograph, and when a viewer pushes it, she will hear the patient tell her own story in her own words.

Despite her ongoing battle with cancer, Marghe continues to be active in community affairs. Among other things, she is back on the board of the Lambda Center, and represents the gay community on the Sacramento Hate Crimes Task Force and the Attorney General's Hate Crimes Task Force.

But she would welcome help with F.O.C.U.S. In addition to looking for "heart-to-heart" volunteers, F.O.C.U.S. needs grant writers, fund raisers, letter writers, and "any number of people with skills and commitment." If this is a project you think you might be interested in, you can contact Marghe at 371-3848 or Gail at 446-4252.
